

In the Abstract

Please amend the abstract as follows:

Service braking of a vehicle can be carried out by way of a service brake actuator having an electric motor as for applying its service brake ~~applying means~~. Energy from a loaded spring in a spring brake actuator connected to the service brake actuator can be released at will for supplying supplementary service brake energy to the service brake actuator.